Price hike fears, year-end push drive E2W sales to new high

NARAYANAN V Chennai, March 26

ELECTRIC TWO-WHEELER (E2W) makers are witnessing robust growth in March, driven by a year-end sales push by OEMs, pre-buying ahead of expected price hikes, and the impending expiry of EV subsidies.

The industry has sold 127,232 units so far in March, already surpassing several full-month tallies to emerge as the second-highest monthly sales figure in FY26, according to Vahan data. The highest ever monthly volume recorded in October 2025, when the industry retailed 145,017 units, supported by festive demand.

Sales so far this month remain marginally lower than the 131,475 units sold in March 2025. However, the full-month tally could surpass last year's figure, with five days still remaining. The industry has sold 1.34 million electric two-wheelers so far this fiscal, higher than the 1.15 million units recorded in the entire FY25.

Poonam Upadhyay, director, Crisil Ratings, said the pick-up in March E2W sales largely reflects the typical year-end momentum, as OEMs and dealers strive to meet annual targets. "Price revisions linked to commodity inflation and cost pressures are already coming through," Upadhyay added.

Several two-wheeler manufacturers have already flagged potential price hikes in the fourth quarter, as a sharp rise in the cost of key inputs — including precious metals such as silver and platinum, along with broader commodity inflation — has squeezed margins, forcing companies to pass on part of the increase to customers.

TVS Motor Director & CEO KN Radhakrishnan said the commodity price surge was driven by higher costs of aluminium, copper, zinc, and precious metals such as platinum,

Accenture, Anthropic tie up for AI security tools

POULOMI CHATTERJEE Bengaluru, March 26

ACCENTURE HAS ANNOUNCED a new cybersecurity solution, Cyber.AI, powered by Anthropic's Claude AI model, aimed at helping organisations transition to AI-driven security operations.

The solution features proprietary AI agents — including Agent Shield, part of the Cyber.AI Secure AI and Agents capabilities — designed to help identify organisations, protect, identify, monitor, and govern autonomous AI agents in real time.

According to Accenture, the Claude AI model analyses large volumes of security data to deliver contextual insights across the entire security lifecycle. Cyber.AI leverages Claude's built-in guardrails and strengthens them with enterprise-grade governance frameworks and controls. Agent Shield, in particular, ensures AI agents operate in line with organisational policies and safety protocols.

Raw materials typically account for 65%–75% of an OEM's bill of materials. In EVs, silver contributes only about 1%–2% of the BOM.

and rhodium. "We are closely monitoring the situation," he said.

Ather Energy CEO Tarun Mehta also flagged the impact of rising commodity prices, noting that this had increased the company's raw material costs by 53% in the third quarter.

Iran war squeezes margins, liquor firms seek price hike

VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO Mumbai, March 26

THE COUNTRY'S LEADING liquor and beer makers have sought price increases of 12%–15% from state governments, citing a sharp rise in input costs triggered by the ongoing conflict in West Asia and resulting supply disruptions.

Alcohol is a state subject, with state governments regulating production, distribution and pricing, and levying excise duties. Taxes on liquor and beer remain outside the GST framework. Pricing rules vary across states. Markets such as Maharashtra, Karnataka and Goa allow relatively free pricing, but companies are still expected to seek government approval for any increase or decrease as it has a direct bearing on excise revenue. In several other states that operate on annual supply contracts, companies are allowed price revisions within a defined band at the start of the year, but require explicit approval for any mid-year changes.

IN LOW SPIRITS

Table with 3 columns: Share price (₹), % change, and company names like Allied Blenders, Som Distilleries, Sula Vineyards, United Spirits, Radico Khaitan.

(CIAB) and the Brewers Association of India (BAI), which represent major distillers and brewers, have written to states seeking permission for price revisions in Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL) and beer.

pragmatic policy environment. Holding prices back when costs are rising works to no one's benefit. Inability to pass on cost increases disincentivises a supplier, especially when there is a shortage and supplies need to be replaced," Vinod Giri, director general, BAI, told FE. He added that brewers may prioritise supplies to states such as Maharashtra, Karnataka and Goa, where pricing flexibility is relatively higher.

"Timely and calibrated price adjustments are essential to ensure continued investments, maintain stable supply, and support the long-term sustainability of the IMFL sector. Against the backdrop of escalating geopolitical tensions in West Asia and its impact on input costs, we are writing to state governments seeking consideration for price revisions," Anant S Iyer, director general, CIAB, said.

The domestic market is estimated at around 410 million cases for IMFL and 440 million cases for beer. Companies said the inability to pass on costs could pressure margins and affect supply decisions.

Helium shortage likely to impact chip supply chain

QIASVI GUPTA New Delhi, March 26

A GLOBAL HELIUM supply disruption triggered by the West Asia crisis is beginning to add pressure on the semiconductor supply chain, with potential spillovers for electronics manufacturers that rely on chips, even as India's nascent fabrication units remain largely insulated for now.

Helium, a critical industrial gas used in semiconductor manufacturing, has seen supply constraints following disruptions in Qatar, which accounts for a significant share of global output. The immediate impact on India's chipmaking ecosystem is limited, as large-scale fabrication facilities are yet to ramp up production. However, industry executives said prolonged disruption could tighten chip availability for downstream sectors such as smartphones, laptops and consumer electronics.

Faisal Kawoosa, chief analyst at Techarc, said pricing pressures were already building due to memory shortages, and the helium disruption could add costs. "Prices have already been increasing for various reasons mainly due to memory shortages. Now, with the West Asia crisis impacting helium supply, we expect another round price increases starting early April," he said.

Most original equipment manufacturers (OEM) typically operate with inventory buffers of three to five weeks. This suggests that any supply-side stress may become visible on existing inventories as they are exhausted, particularly in smaller and mid-tier brands that have less bargaining power with component suppliers.

Industry estimates point to a moderation in demand well. "We are estimating 7–15% dip in volumes across smart device categories in India," Kawoosa said, indicating a shift in consumer spending towards essentials amid global uncertainty.

India emerges as a bright spot for BSH Home Appliances

FE BUREAU Mumbai, March 26

MUNCH-HEADQUARTERED BSH Home Appliances Group on Thursday reported 7% growth in India in 2025, even as its overall global revenue declined 1.6% year-on-year after adjusting for currency effects. In local currency terms, however, overall revenue rose 2.8%, the company said.

The group reported turnover of ₹15 billion in 2025, navigating a challenging global environment marked by weak housing markets and geopolitical tensions. Strong growth in India has prompted the company to remove the country from its emerging markets classification and begin reporting it as a separate region from 2026, similar to the Greater China region. The company did not disclose the overall size of its India business. BSH manufactures a range of appliances — from dishwashers to refrigerators and washing machines — at its Chennai plant, which was set up in 2018.

"India is a subcontinent with huge potential. It is an extremely important market that now demands separate focus. To reflect the size, dynamism and strategic importance of the Indian market, India will be established as an independent region from 2026," said Matthias Metz, chief executive officer, BSH Home Appliances Group, said.

between September 2025 and January 2026, making it the company's fastest-growing category in the country. Laundry appliance volumes rose around 15%, while demand for built-in steam ovens increased 30%, signalling a shift towards healthier cooking habits, the Group said.

The company also recorded its highest-ever festive season sales in India, driven by strong demand across dishwashers, cooking solutions, and laundry appliances, it added.

Looking ahead, BSH plans to expand its product portfolio and deepen localisation efforts. Its 'Make-in-India-for-India' strategy in cooling appliances aims to cater to the full spectrum of demand, from entry-level to premium refrigerators.
